Hazel Brugger / Thomas Spitzer Jannes Weber What's Up, Germany?

Where on earth are Hazel und Thomas?

Hazel Brugger and Thomas Spitzer are the dream team of German comedy. This is their hidden object book based on the successful series Deutschland Was Geht (now with 20 million views on YouTube).

Their sharp-witted take on contemporary life in sixteen topical scenes forms a hilarious cardboard picture book for both adults and children.

Whether it's on the ostrich farm, at the gym, the currywurst stand or the beach, in this hidden object book you'll find countless people, animals and little stories on every page – and in their midst, Hazel Brugger and Thomas Spitzer. For their series Deutschland Was Geht, these two comedians visited bizarre locations and events all over the country. Children will love this hidden object book, and fans will find familiar locations and details.

Mimi

With a pair of tights wound around her head, a sweater tied around her belly and golden sandals on her feet, Mimi rings the doorbell of her parents' home and tells her astonished mother that she is not Mimi today but Anne Other. As Anne Other, she does everything quite differently: she drinks her cocoa without a fuss because milk is good for her bones, she cannot bear strawberry jam, which Mimi loves, and she allows Mrs. Müller to tie her shoelaces because she cannot do it as well as Mimi. And then she tells Mimi's parents the terrible secret that has been concealed beneath Mimi's pillow for days...

DORIS DÖRRIE, born in Hanover, studied acting and theatre in California and in New York before she decided to work behind, and not in front of, the camera. Men, her third film, was a worldwide hit. Alongside her work in cinema (including, most recently, the motion picture Cherry Blossoms and Demons) she is a highly praised author of short stories, novels and children's books. She lives in Munich, where she teaches creative writing at the University of Television and Film.

»It's fun to imagine Mimi's escapades in our mind.«

Mimi Gets Mad

With illustrations by Julia Kaergel
32 pages, 20.8 x 29 cm
2004

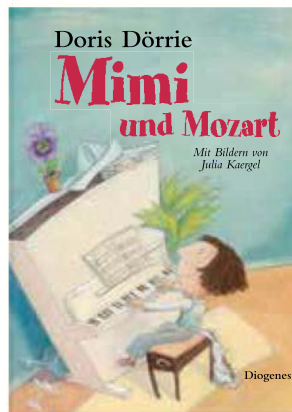

Mimi returns! And this time, she's in a rotten mood... Once again, Mimi's bedroom is in a state of chaos, but Mimi does not want to tidy up. Faced with her mother's impatience, Mimi begins to curse – and soon discovers that swearwords can have a very peculiar effect...

Mimi Discovers the World

With illustrations by Julia Kaergel
32 pages, 20.8 x 29 cm
2006

What should Mimi do with the blank piece of paper that her father hands her? »But there is nothing on it,« complains Mimi. Then the two of them discover much more than just a story.

Practising piano is so boring that Mimi listlessly tinkers away – when suddenly a boy in strange clothes and a white wig walks out of the piano. He plays piano like a virtuoso, never looks at the notes, and never makes a single mistake... Mimi Meets Mozart – and suddenly piano practice is no longer irritating!

JULIA KAERGEL, born in Hamburg in 1965, started her working life as a multilingual administrative assistant before going into industrial business management. She then studied in the design department of the University of Applied Sciences in Hamburg, specialising in children's book illustration. She has been a freelance illustrator since 1998.

My Djinn

Eleven-year-old Lars cannot bear living in the children's home anymore, and he runs away. He wants to find his mother, even though no-one knows where she is. Her last letter, which Lars carries with him in his pocket, was sent from India.

But India is far away. Fortunately a strange old man comes to Lars' aid: his name is Kol and he knows a thing or two about herbs, Indian tea and many other mysterious things, including Lars' family history...

On the search for his mother, the boy winds up in Rome – where Roma children take him to their campsite and the sharp-as-a-tack girl Suni helps him some more – and in the end he really does make it to India, where Lars and his friends will need all their wits and courage in order to outsmart those who want to harm his mother.

»Lukas Hartmann has given us the gift of My Djinn.«

A fast-paced adventure novel and an exciting guessing game for young heroes – for all the children who have ever had dental braces – or who ever wanted them.

Who has not wished they could finally be good at school? Know the capital of Madagascar, how many kilos a hippopotamus weighs and how many grams an earthworm. It is a little odd that shy Tobi suddenly knows all the answers after he gets his dental braces. His classmates, at first full of surprised admiration, soon get suspicious, and Tobi also starts to find the whole thing uncanny.

About the dream of being a hero, and the question of who to trust – other people or ourselves?

Wild Sophie

To make sure nothing can harm his son Jan, King Ferdinand surrounds him with an entire army of minders, from walkers and insect hunters to clothes warmers and cod liver oil administrators. It's no wonder that Jan is such a shy and pale little guy. Until he meets wild Sophie, who does all the things he is forbidden from doing, and whose way of life is so different to his – wild and dangerous!

»Wild Sophie will impress you with its pictures, which stay in your mind long after you've stopped reading, and with a nuanced poetic language that is not often found in children's literature.«

All the Missing Things

The little plastic dinosaur – gone. Karl's left goal-keeper's glove – missing. The new umbrella cover – lost without a trace. Karl is always losing things. »You have to start looking after your things better!« say his parents. That is what Kasper says too. Kasper is Karl's best friend – a hand puppet who comes to life when he puts his hand in it. But that does not help Karl. Things come to a head when he loses Kasper in the park. Karl sets out on a quest to a place, where all the lost things must be. And Karl does not mean the lost property office. One night, under a full moon, his little dog Timo puts him on the right track...

An adventurous story about how you sometimes have to lose (almost) everything to find the thing that is the most important.

CHARLES JOHN HUFFAM DICKENS (1812–1870) started his professional life as a journalist. In 1836 his first novel The Pickwick Papers was published as a newspaper series – and numerous other novels followed. Of his famous characters, Ebenezer Scrooge remains so well-known until today that ›a Scrooge‹ became a way of calling a miser and David Copperfield had his name re-used by a modern-day stage magician.

SAMUEL LANGHORNE CLEMENS (1835–1910), better known by his pen name Mark Twain, was an American humorist, satirist, lecturer and writer. Twain is most noted for his novels Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, which has since been called the Great American Novel, and The Adventures of Tom Sawyer.

John Irving A Sound Like Someone Trying Not to Make a Sound

A children's book by John Irving? Indeed, nothing could be more natural – as no other author has handled the themes of childhood, adolescence and the coming-of-age as well as Irving. Sometimes children's stories are hidden within stories for adults – one has only to discover them. A Sound Like Someone Trying Not to Make a Sound is the adventure of a brave young boy who has a bad dream, and sets out in the middle of the night with his father to find the source of a ghostlike sound – and chase it away.

Kashtanka by Anton Chekhov

This volume presents a collection of 10 stories for children – and for everyone in possession of a lively and youthful imagination.

»Children ought only to be given what is also suitable for grown-ups.

Books should not be written for children, but one ought to know how to choose from what has been written for adults, that is to say, one should be able to select among drugs, and to administer them in suitable doses – that is more direct and consistent than trying to invent a special remedy for the patient merely because he is a child.«

Anton Chekhov

ANTON CHEKHOV (1860–1904) grew up in a poor family with a father who was a strict disciplinarian. The children were made to get out of bed at five o'clock in the morning and were expected to work in the family shop before going to school. Anton, however, was soon to start making his own money: he created stories that were printed in the local newspaper and was thus able to support his family. Later in life, he attended to people in his capacity as a doctor, became a world-famous writer and travelled the world.

The Most Beautiful Tales From the Arabian Nights

For all those who have always shied away from the sheer length of the original, Urs Widmer has carefully abridged the wonderful Tales from the Arabian Nights while preserving their oriental flavour. Highly vivid and amusing, he recounts the six most famous tales of the immortal Sheherazade: The Fisherman and the Djinn, Alibaba and the Forty Thieves, Aladdin and the Magic Lamp, The Magic Horse, The Adventures of Harun al-Rashid, and Sinbad the Sailor.

As Hermann Hesse pointed out, the original of this great collection of fairy tales is »a source of infinite pleasures and the most opulent picture book in the world«. To ensure that this holds true, Tatjana Hauptmann has richly illustrated this work, conveying Oriental lavishness and subtlety.

The Great Book of Ballads

»One of the very best creators of illustrated books.«

Ute Blaich/Die Zeit, Hamburg

The most beautiful German ballads – with fairy-tale illustrations by Tatjana Hauptmann.

Let us tell of beckoning mermaids and of men up to their necks in water, of friends who will never be separated, of mourning husbands and fathers, of human anger and divine revenge, but also of fools who appease the gods and dogs who still know the meaning of good manners. As varied as the ballad's themes, so diverse are its forms: broadside ballads and folk songs alongside lyrical ballads, farces and parodies. The ballad can do anything, but there is one thing it always has to be: »dramatic« – at least according to Goethe. This collection brings together a selection of the most exciting, the saddest and funniest German ballads, the lyrical ballads of Bürger, Goethe, Schiller and the humorous work of Morgenstern – all of them delightfully illustrated by Tatjana Hauptmann.

Little John

by Theodor Storm

The night-time adventures of Little John – one of Germany’s most beloved children’s stories, accompanied by marvellous new illustrations by Tatjana Hauptmann, which are full of underlying humour.

All day long, Little John gets pushed back and forth in his trundle bed by his mother; he just cannot get enough of it. But now, in the middle of the night, while his mother is deep asleep the little boy is bored. So he stretches his leg up high, as though it were a mast, hangs his shirt on it like a sail and starts puffing with both his cheeks. Under the watchful eye of the good old moon, Little John sails around his room three times and then – »more, more!« – out into the town at night and – »more, more!« – further into the dark forest and – »more, more!« – far away, right to the end of the world.

A wonderful bedtime story.

Mini

Little mice need big adventures.

Helme Heine is up to his old tricks. A tale of courage – and why we should all be less afraid to try new things. Lovingly written and brilliantly illustrated.

Life gets so boring if you never think outside the box! That's Mini's opinion, anyway. She lives in the basement, way down under the stairs. Unlike young Mini, Mum and Dad worry constantly. The world outside the mousehole is riddled with peril. Yet Mini refuses to be deterred. Bold and determined, she sets out again and again in search of like-minded friends, finding that other little adventurers do exist after all.

Follows on from the heart-warming tale that was awarded the 2021 ›LovelyBooks Readers' Prize.«

The little hedgehog is back! In the autumn he likes sunbathing on a hill and watching the people in the village. When he returns to his treestump house, he finds three bags full of little apples – but what he thinks is a gift from the grey mouse soon turns out to be the red squirrel's stockpile of food for the winter. Still, that doesn't matter, because the forest has plenty of gifts to go around. A celebration of autumn colours and a homage to friendship.

Andrej Kurkow Tania Goryushina Why Nobody Strokes Hedgehogs

A heart-warming story about true friendship and the joy of accepting yourself as you are.

The children's bestseller from Ukraine, with enchanting pastel drawings by Tania Goryushina.

The little hedgehog is sad. The other animals are constantly being petted: the dogs, the cats, the hares and the horses. He's the only one that no one strokes. But one day he meets a clever field mouse who shows him that we're all lovable just as we are. And that sometimes it's a wonderful thing to be wild and free.

Clever rhymes and wonderfully whimsical illustrations – the rediscovery of a children's classic.

Most of all, the moffels like to sleep all day long. Only after midnight, when people are dreaming, do the moffels come out. They clamber over roofs, wander through empty streets, pass by the bakery and the school, end up at the department store and the zoo, but they can't find what they're looking for: a hooman, as the moffels call humans. After all, night is when humans are asleep...

Ute Krause The Lion in the Attic

If there was one thing Karla and her family could do well, it was to make noise. To make sure that they all had enough room to make noise, they moved into a tall, narrow house in which each member of the family had a floor all to themselves. But the most interesting thing about the house was the attic, for it was there that Karla found a cello with which she could make the most wonderful noise! But that was not all: there was a rusty door at the far end of the attic. When Karla finally managed to open it, she found a wild garden watched over by a stone lion. The lion showed Karla a mysterious world: the world of silence and soft sounds.

Charles Lewinsky To the Earth and Back

When a child asks: »Why?«, it questions everything we previously thought to be true, turning the world on its head.

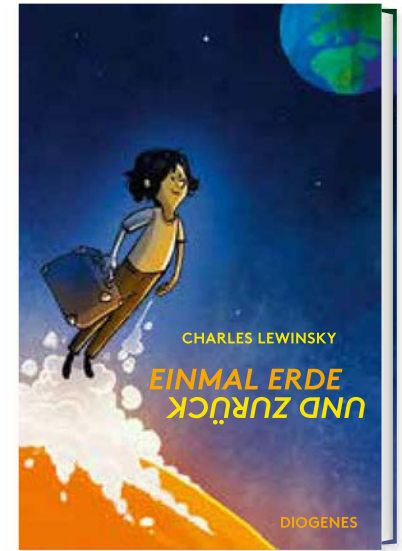

A 499 year old child comes from a distant planet, where instead of growing up in the course of their lifetime, the people become children – and therefore sensible beings. The child often finds the inhabitants on earth impossible to understand. Why do they want to disfigure the forest with a road? Why do people have to compete while playing sports, and why do they lock animals up in the zoo? The child tries to put an end to this nonsense.

A book packed with wordplay and practical jokes; subversive, funny and clever, just as readers both young and old enjoy.

Suitable for reading out loud with children, and for them to read alone.

»This child is an endearing, anarchic rascal [...] who teaches us how to see the familiar in a new way.«

Holly in Heaven

Holly was flying. She could hardly believe it. She was flying through the air, just like that. It really was extraordinary.

Holly had only flown once before. In a plane. With her parents, when her parents still wanted to fly in planes together. They'd let her have some chewing gum to help her ears pop, and Timi, her little brother, had cried because he wanted some too. Holly's dad had tried to act like the family with the screaming kid had nothing to do with him. And then Holly's mum had tried to act like Holly's dad had nothing to do with her. In the end, Holly had stuck the gum under her seat.

That had been special. But not outright extraordinary. Not as especially extraordinary as this right now. Because right now, Holly was flying without any plane at all. She just flew. Like an angel, only without wings. Because she wasn't an angel. Holly was still a totally ordinary girl.

MICHA LEWINSKY, born in Kassel in 1972, is a screenwriter and film director, with projects including The Friend (»Swiss Film Prize«), Will You Marry Us? and One-Way to Moscow. He also produced Earworms, catchy songs for children that have found their way into virtually every Swiss child's room. Lewinsky is currently working on a new feature film. He lives in Zurich with his two children.

Heaven: it's buzzing up there.

A madcap, playful and philosophical adventure that deals with some of children's most pressing questions.

A story that will take the hearts of children and parents by storm. A book that stands comparison with the most beautiful children's books in world literature, perfectly complemented by Lawrence Grimm's illustrations.

When Holly arrives in heaven, it turns out her life is far from over: there's a lot going on in the other world. The place is packed with people and animals, but amid the crowds she meets Frida, who has been there for a hundred years and knows her way around.

Together they set off towards the School for Angels. Because, as Frida explains, if you're an angel you can go back down to Earth. Holly is desperate to see how her family is doing. There's only one problem: ever since Bortel has been in charge of heaven, the school has been closed and the connection to Earth has been severed.

»In his debut Holly in Heaven, Micha Lewinsky uses his experience as a scriptwriter and filmmaker – and his imagination seems to know no boundaries.«

Not Today

The launch title of the children's book series is a genuine favourite. Once read aloud you may never get it out of your head, exposing parents to the risk of countless repeat performances.

Unforgettable rhymes and compelling illustrations.

The pool is closed when it's time for a paddle, ice cream falls down and turns to a puddle

The newt is in a grumpy mood, and the crocodile forgets to smile.

All the animals are blue today, full of sadness and sorrow.

Will it get better? Not today, maybe tomorrow!

Before there's too much drama with the llama, the next adventure for the little panda's animal gang is waiting around the corner. A hilarious and wonderfully illustrated read-aloud book.

Are your children really loud? You're not alone.

The latest picture book triumph from Meyer&Meyer is about Rolf, the young stag whose roar makes the whole forest shake.

Yes, it's hard to believe!
It's Rolf, bugling!
Only the doe, Irmchen, doesn't want to leave,
Asking, who's that bugling king?

It's music to my ears
I've not heard anything so lovely in years!
Music? Just a minute! Can that be true?
Could noise bring us joy, too?

Do birds move in herds?
Who lives in a shoal?
How's life in a group?
Who does what in which troop?

Timon and Julian Meyer shake up the animal kingdom, showing young readers the different ways animal families live together.

Have fun with rhymes while learning!

Litter, covey, pack, horde? Clear as day – or as mud? Then this is the picture book you need to become an expert on the animal world. It's also incredibly funny: where else do you get to see a paddling of ducks driving some trucks or a shrewdness of apes and giraffes sharing grapes? The reader is given a tour of the animal world, learning all its crooked, unexpected connections – with pitch-perfect rhymes and fabulous illustrations.

Timon Meyer / Julian Meyer Good Night, Little Panda

Bedtime made easy: help your little ones drift off to sleep with the little panda. The latest hit by Timon & Julian Meyer is a gentle good-night story and a fun interactive book all rolled into one.

Back at last: the little panda from the beloved children's book Not Today.

Bedtime is often anything but peaceful – there's still so much to do and to tell, so much that's happened during the day, and so much to catch the attention of little readers. Luckily, the panda feels exactly the same way, making this book the perfect companion for the daily bedtime ritual.

Our dear little Panda has had quite the day: There was lots of adventure and laughter and play.

And now our Panda is all tucked out,
So he brushes his teeth
and he washes his snout.

Picks his favorite pillow,
the one that's bright red,
And finally snuggles himself into bed.

With his most beloved plushie
and also his blankie
In the hopes that tomorrow
he won't wake up cranky.

The first children's book by Thomas Meyer, the author of Wolkenbruch, with beautiful illustrations by the picture-book artist Mehrdad Zaeri, is a delightfully humorous story and a poetic birds-and-bees book.

The sky is full of stars — all of them just waiting to fly down to earth and become a human child.

One little star has been waiting a very long time, though — a million years! At long last, he finds the right mummy and the right daddy. But then the two of them simply don't get any closer. Luckily, Star's best friend Owl has a brilliant idea.

Did you know? Every one of us was once a little star.

Our hero Radel the Hamster decides to rebel and rides out into the world. And all the other hamsters follow suit.

A story about children and carps and how they get the better of fishermen.

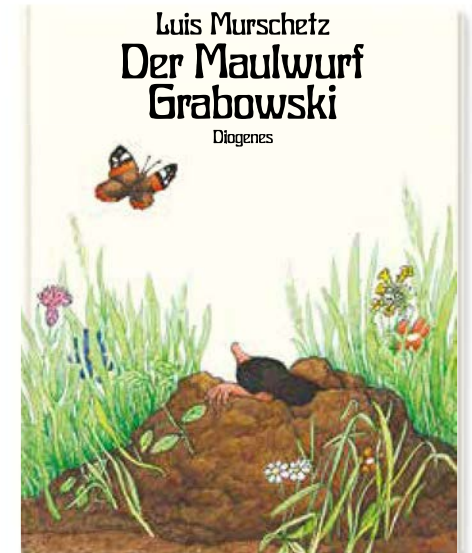

The story of little rabbits who turn a theatre into an adventure playground.

Mister Mole's cosy little basement home beneath a lush green meadow falls victim to city planners and their destructive impact on the environment. And so, Mister Mole is forced to look elsewhere for a new, quiet place to live.

In magnificent pictures Luis Murschetz tells the story of Mister Mole, who after an eventful journey finds a new meadow to call his own.

Spring is approaching—and Josie Smith plants a miniature garden in her backyard with parsley, snapdragons and nasturtiums. At Easter, Josie discovers that painting Easter eggs is much more fun than stuffing herself full with chocolate eggs, and that the most beautiful Easter egg of all is the one over which hen Mavis is brooding, until a chick hatches out.

The summer is unbearably hot. But Josie Smith and her mother always come up with something: she is allowed to splash about in an old barrel in the yard. At this, even her spoiled friend Eileen becomes envious and does not stop complaining until she too can play in the barrel. What does it matter if the water ruins Eileen's curls? With her ›magic hairspray‹, Josie's mother will soon put everything in place again.

Who said that autumn is a melancholy season? Not Josie Smith, that's for sure. For her, this is the time for picking blackberries. A new teacher is the source of some excitement as the school year begins. And this time round, the traditional autumn festival will be something special for Josie.

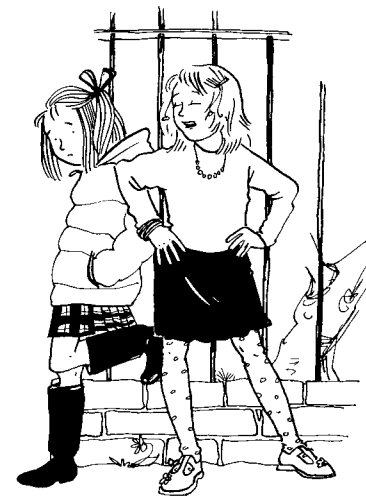

No matter if it's stormy outside or the snow is falling: Josie Smith always comes up with something. Josie wears her rubber boots in all weather, is always losing her mittens, and seems to be constantly at loggerheads with her spoiled friend Eileen, who has everything that Josie can only dream of.

Josie Smith and the Big Fight with Eileen

Eileen is becoming more and more insufferable – but Josie Smith forgives her because her mum has been taken to hospital.

We've been waiting for this for so long: Josie Smith and Eileen have a falling out and Josie finally gives spoiled little Eileen a good ticking off! But in the end, when Eileen's mum comes home from hospital, Josie's mother throws a huge party and all is forgiven.

Tomi Ungerer Crictor

Madame Bodot teaches school in a peaceful French village. She has a son who is studying reptiles in Africa, but she is nonetheless unprepared for the birthday present he sends her: a baby boa constrictor.

She names the infant snake Crictor, and he grows up to be an affectionate and lovable pet. Crictor attends his mistress's classes, and shows remarkable aptitude for forming letters and numbers with his body. He is particularly helpful to the children, letting them use him as a jump rope and allowing them to practice knots with him.

Life goes on happily for Madame Bodot and her long friend. Then one night a burglar breaks into their house. Crictor's quick thought and action save the day. What can a burglar do against the wrath of a loyal boa constrictor?

Tomi Ungerer's bright, beguiling story and pictures of this improbable situation are a pure delight. Long live Crictor!

Moon Man

»Exceptionally highly recommended.«

Kirkus Reviews, New York

For everyone who thinks the moon is made of green cheese (and for the few who do not), here is Tomi Ungerer's Moon Man to tell the story of the man in the moon and how he came to visit us one night.

Watching the people on earth dancing happily, the Moon Man decides to fly down and join the fun. But instead of giving their distinguished guest the hearty welcome he deserves, the people he meets send the Moon Man off to jail. Alone in his cell the Moon Man uses his special lunar powers to slip through the hands of the law (by means of a stratagem too original and too appropriate to be divulged here). His ensuing adventures in the forest and his encounter with an odd, three-hundred-year-old scientist create a gently satiric fable.

Zeralda's Ogre

»A barbaric delight for both young and old children!«

Die Weltwoche, Zurich

For weeks now, all of the children in town have been hiding in trunks, barrels, and basements to avoid becoming the hungry ogre's breakfast – all of the children, that is, except Zeralda, who lives in a clearing in the woods and does not know much about ogres. She does, however, know everything about cooking, and when the two finally come face to face the scrumptious feasts she prepares transform the ogre's eating habits.

The Sorcerer's Apprentice

by Barbara Hazen

Based on the famous poem by Johann Wolfgang von Goethe about a sorcerer's apprentice who summons spirits and then cannot get rid of them.

Long ago, there lived a sorcerer who could weave all kinds of spells. This sorcerer had a young and rather lazy apprentice who worked for him in return for lessons in magic. One day, when the sorcerer was away from the castle, his apprentice unlocked the secret magic book and decided to use it to save himself some work:

»Sharrroom ta!

Sharrroom ta!

Old broom perk,
bring water and do all my work!«

And with that, the old broom in the corner came to life and began bringing buckets of water up the steep stone steps to the castle from the river below. The young apprentice was delighted – until the water began to flood the castle and he realized that he didn't know the magic words to make the broom stop!

The Hat

»A resounding success!«

Esther Scheidegger/Tages-Anzeiger, Zurich

A handsome black top hat living on top of a rich man's head... there is nothing remarkable about that, but a hat that answers to its owner's beck and call is something else! Tiring of a rich man's company, his hat takes off and lands on the head of Benito Badoglio, a penniless war veteran.

At once the magic of the hat begins to work, taking old Benito through a series of spectacular rescues. Before long Benito finds himself rich and dressed like a gentleman, and that is when he saves the Contessa herself from a runaway horse. True love blossoms, and the hat, having done its work, flies off... Heaven knows where.

This happy tale will capture the fancy of children and adults alike, and Tomi Ungerer's illustrations, with their broad humour and careful attention to detail, make this a picture book to treasure.

The Beast of Monsieur Racine

»Full of mischief and masterfully illustrated – a pure Ungerer.«

Reinhardt Stumm/Basler Zeitung

This is the story of Monsieur Racine, retired tax-collector and prime pear grower, whose contented life is disturbed by a strange beast that comes into his garden to steal his golden pears. But Monsieur Racine befriends the beast by feeding it all sorts of delicacies, and they enjoy marvellous outings together. At the same time, Monsieur Racine is determined to discover more about his strange creature and carries out extensive research – to no avail. He writes to the Academy of Sciences, and when its members invite him to bring his bizarre specimen to Paris, Monsieur Racine and his beast are given a rapturous welcome. What the beast turns out to be causes uproar, but leaves Monsieur Racine a happier man.

Publishers Weekly, New York

If there's one thing Piper Paw hates, it's being kissed by his doting mother, Mrs. Velvet Paw. And one day she does the unforgivable: she kisses Piper in front of his friends!

»Kisses, kisses all the time,« howls Piper.

»I don't like it. I don't want it. Good-morning kisses, licky kisses, soggy kisses!« What can Mrs. Paw do? She answers her son with a surprise of her own – and it's not a kiss.

Piper Paw's rambunctious story is sure to fascinate its readers – kissers and non-kissers alike.

»Ungerer's drawings are irresistible, as always.«

Library Journal, New York

»In this fierce, funny book the disgraceful, outrageous behaviour of a naughty, sour-pussed kitten named Piper Paw will make toes curl with horrified delight.«

Allumette

»A children's book for adults – and vice versa!«

Die Weltwoche, Zurich

Allumette is Tomi Ungerer's wild adaptation of Hans-Christian Andersen's The Little Match Girl. Allumette also wanders the cold streets around Christmas time, cold and hungry and with no money and no home to return to. But unlike the poor girl in Andersen's tale, Ungerer's heroine Allumette does not die of the cold, but gets everything she has ever wished for – and uses the power of that original wish to effect the betterment of society as a whole.

A wonderful story with a happy ending and of course, Tomi Ungerer's indispensable illustrations.

Heidi by Johanna Spyri

Tomi Ungerer's wonderful sketches, all the more realistic and lively for their minimalism, allow the text to shine, just adding a punchline here and there – a refreshing addition to one of the most beautiful children's classics in the world!

Who does not know them, Alm-Öhi, Peter the goatherd, Aunt Dete and poor Klara in Frankfurt – Heidi enchants them all. Their story is as old as it is topical, a parable that has attained the status of a classic, a tale about the victory of humaneness and the power of love in a society that has become heartless.

The first edition of this children's book classic was published in 1880 when the dark side of technological progress was beginning to make itself felt. It is no coincidence that love of nature prevails over the blessings of modern civilisation.

»A touching and colourfully narrated children's classic to (re)discover.«

Flix

»An intelligent parable about tolerance.«

Der Spiegel, Hamburg

Can cats give birth to puppies? Can dogs climb trees? Can cats swim? These are but a few of the questions posed by Tomi Ungerer's book, which tells the story of Flix, the little pug, whose parents are the cats Theo and Flora Krall. »A dog?!« – »Oh well!« A modern, yet timeless story about tolerance and mutual respect.

Tremolo

»The enchanting story about a passionate rioter.«

Münchner Merkur

What are notes of music really like, apart from the fact that they sit motionless on the lines of the staff? Do they taste sweet or hot? What happens if you mix Debussy and Schubert together in a pan?

Tomi Ungerer tells the adventurous story of Mr. Tremolo who triggers a catastrophe with his music. His nocturnal music-making shatters the crystal ball belonging to his neighbour, a fortune-teller who finally loses her patience and casts a spell on him. From then on, everything happens in a rush, but all evil has its good side as well, thinks Mr. Tremolo, and he manages to find a way out of all his difficulties.

The story of Mr. Tremolo is a very imaginative and amusing description of the small, exciting world that can emerge when things are snatched out of their usual context. Gently and un-sentimentally, we are reminded of what we have long since forgotten in our technical age: the ability to listen to one another.

Otto

»At once sad and tempestuous, moving and humorous.«

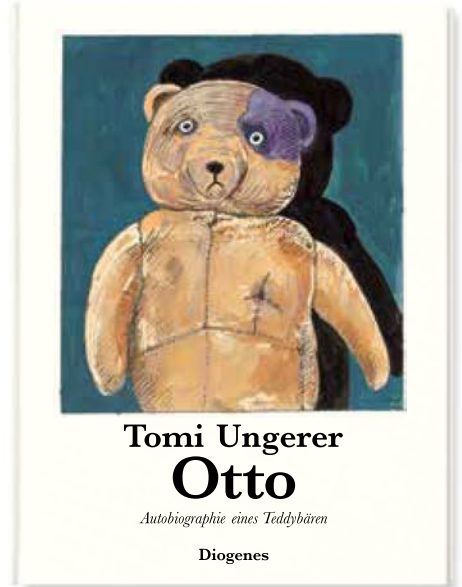

Berliner Morgenpost

Otto the teddy bear tells the story of his unusual bear's life. One day he falls into the hands of David, a Jewish boy who lives somewhere in a German town. But the idyll is rudely interrupted by political changes.

A journey into the unknown begins for Otto, and he passes from hand to hand until, after many years, he ends up in loving arms once more.

»Tomi Ungerer has never become stuck with one way of writing and drawing, and he rebels tirelessly against conventional ways of seeing and thinking. This makes him so unique as an author of children's books.«

The Blue Cloud

Susanne Schübel/Westdeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, Essen

Once upon a time there was a small blue cloud. It was happy and did whatever it liked. When all the other clouds were raining, it simply didn't rain with them. The little blue cloud bewitched people on earth and cast a spell on their world. Until one day it sees a terrible war on earth and has to make the most difficult decision of its life.

Making Friends

»This story is a wonderful plea for friendship.«

Rheinischer Merkur, Bonn

Idi and his parents have moved to a new town. He does not know anyone there and so nobody comes to his birthday party. Fortunately his father has always given him tools as a present. With these he can at least keep himself busy. Out of the things that others throw away, he makes what he does not have: friends. When Ki, the girl next door, hears the noise coming from Idi's workshop, she becomes curious. What is that boy doing? »I'm making myself friends,« he replies. Ki wants to help out with her sewing machine. The two of them have a lot of fun and while making friends, they become friends. Idi's and Ki's imaginative creations soon fill the whole front garden – the other children come to marvel and would like nothing better than for Idi and Ki to show them how to make new friends like that.

»More than any of my other books for children, this story is about friendship and that which constitutes friendship: sharing, respect, fun and mutual creativity.«

Zloty

»Tomi Ungerer at his best!«

Focus, Munich

A girl races through the big dark forest on a scooter to visit her ill grandmother. Sounds familiar to you? In Tomi Ungerer's subversive fairy tale about the power of relativity, the little heroine is called Zloty, and instead of a little red riding hood she wears a red motorcycle helmet. She not only encounters the big bad wolf but also small giants and tall dwarfs: And Zloty, Kopek and Samovar become friends for life. The story of a friendship that overcomes all obstacles – and all differences in height.

Fog Man

»Tomi Ungerer has created another masterpiece.«

Eric Carle (Author of The Very Hungry Caterpillar)

Finn and Cara are brother and sister and live on the Irish coast, where sheep graze on the green cliffs, the wind howls in the chimneys and grey fog rises up above the sea. One day, when the siblings are out rowing their boat in the bay, thick fog suddenly closes in around them and the current washes them upon an unknown beach. Finn and Cara have landed on Fog Island, from which no one has ever come back alive. But they do not lose heart, and end up meeting the wondrous master of the island. From him they learn where the fog comes from.

Why Am I Not You?

»Touching but never kitschy.«

Thomas Assheuer/Die Zeit, Hamburg

Tomi Ungerer answers children's questions with the irreverent wisdom of a great artist who has never forgotten his inner child.

His column from Philosophie magazine – in book form for the first time.

»Why am I not you, and why are you not me? Who created God? If someone hits me, is it ok to hit back? Why does money exist? Could it be that I am only dreaming my life? Is there such a thing as nothing? Why do we have to love others and not just ourselves?«

Non Stop

»Don't hope, cope!«

Tomi Ungerer

A picture book for both adults and children, about friendship, trust and humanity – a classic in the making.

We all need someone to look after us. And someone to care for.

Planet Earth is devastated and empty. Everyone has escaped to the moon. Only Vasco is still there, determined to bring little green Poco to safety. Luckily, he has an ally: his own shadow, which rescues him and the baby from a thousand threats – just in time! – and shows him the way on his adventurous journey through destroyed cities and apocalyptic landscapes. Right up until the unexpectedly sweet ending.

This and That

»One of the best illustrators of the century.«

Andreas Platthaus/Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung

The last book from the creator of The Three Robbers and Moon Man is enchantingly playful and kind.

Big and small, smiling and crying, dancing and singing, reading and writing: Tomi Ungerer has sketched and painted sixteen word pairs with love and mischievousness: with both opposites and complementing terms. A game of contrasts and surprising perspectives, a wonderfully inspiring picture and wordbook for young children.

»The final book of the late artist and author – who died in February 2019 at the age of 87 – shows that he managed to maintain a sense of childlike wonder his whole life long.«

F. K. Waechter We Can Do So Many Things Together

Little fish Harald, piglet Inge and birdie Philip all are bored to death. Apart from their parents, there is nobody around to play with. And it is not really fun to play games on your own like »blowing little bubbles«, »romping in the swamp« and »daredevil flying«. How wonderful that, one fine day, the three animals meet and become friends. Not only can they teach each other fantastic things, they can also play »nose-to-nose«, »booty-to-booty« and »belly-to-belly«. Harald, Inge and Philip are absolutely certain of one thing: »We can do so many things together«.

A marvellous book about friendship. With cardboard cut-out activities for those tedious hours without your friends – not only for children!

F. K. WAECHTER (1937–2005) was born in Gdańsk (now Poland). Since 1962 he lived in Frankfurt am Main, working first as a graphic artist and later as a free-lancer for various newspapers and magazines, including a number of satirical publications. In 1966 he published his first volume of drawings and cartoons. His famous Anti-Shockheaded Peter was published in 1970. In addition to drawing, Waechter worked for the stage and for films. He received several awards, as the ›German Youth Literature Prize‹ for both The Red Wolf (1999) and We Can Do So Many Things Together (1975).

Grandpa Hucke is back!
And he has brought along his crazy join-in cabinet. Picture book, reading book, activity book, comic, games – and puzzle book rolled into one – and much more besides.

This book is full of stories and pictures. And it grows even larger and more beautiful when in the hands of a child (or two children, or three, or four). For then it becomes an entirely new book with stories and pictures all of its own...

»His drawings were sometimes provocative, often »rude«, but always imbued with a sense of tenderness for the follies of human existence. His pictures and texts managed to be caustic and warm-hearted at the same time.«

Axel Scheffler/New Books in German, London

The classic, remodelled in a classical way. A delightful standard work of antiauthoritarian education. A riotous nostalgic book of the '68 movement.

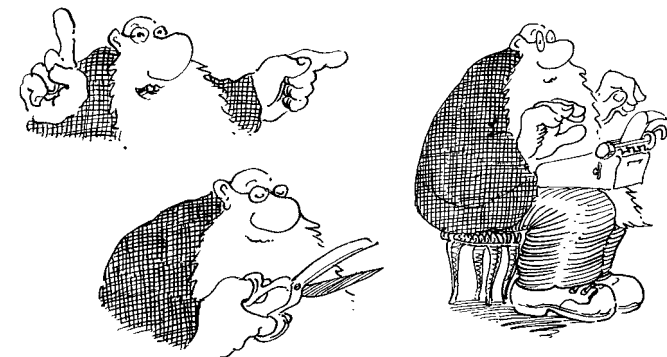

»A book that made literary history – or, shall we say, illustrative history?«

Norddeutscher Rundfunk, Hanover

Easy to become king, being one the hardest thing. After numerous adventures and practical tests, this is the insight gained by the children Robert, Moritz, Johanna, and their friends.

F.K. Waechter and Bernd Eilert created a rollicking book for children, parents and other demanding readers: apart from reading it, one can fold, rhyme, puzzle, paint, and even maltreat it with a pair of scissors.

After an apprenticeship as a cabinet-maker and studying at the Academy of Fine Arts in Munich he continues to live in the city as a poet, illustrator and painter. Reiner Zimnik has been awarded a number of prizes (including the ›Eichendorff Prize‹, ›Munich Art Prize for Graphic Design‹ and a scholarship at the Villa Massimo).

The Bear on the Motorbike

»A real favourite to read three, four times in a row.«

Basler Nachrichten

Once upon a time, there was a big brown circus bear, the only bear in Europe that could ride a motorbike around the circus ring thirteen times without stopping. And the bear was quite pleased with himself. Until one day a little boy called out, »That bear is so stupid, all it can do is ride around in circles!« What do you think happened next? The big brown circus bear runs away and rides alone through the streets on his motorbike, desperate to show people all the things he can do.

First published in 1960 by Dressler
64 pages, 15.5×22 cm

The little roaring tiger was a happy creature. He spent his days clambering along the boughs of trees or leaping after butterflies, and every evening he would stand on a rocky ridge and roar. It was only a small roar – for the little roaring tiger was not much bigger than a cat – but as it echoed away through the Sosnowitzer forest, it sounded more and more alarming. One day the little roaring tiger decided to go out into the world and frighten everyone with his roars. But the first people he met were not as friendly as he expected them to be.

This is the story of a proud, beautiful horse, a horse that could dance on his hind legs and was the greatest attraction at the Happy Days Circus. He had a friend, Old Tom, who did tricks with a bottle. The proud white horse could have lived happily ever after but one day he no longer wanted his job or his friend. He was so sure of this that he ran away, to roam around as he pleased, to be free. But is there such a thing as a free life without work and without friends? The proud horse had to learn the answer, and he had a long way to go until he again found what he had lost.

This is the tale of the flower kid Xaver and Tassilo, the yellow horse, who meet at a tournament of knights on the occasion of a noble medieval wedding. A story of two ambitious outsiders, their unexpected friendship and their attempt to prove everyone who belittled them wrong.

After accidentally becoming friends, the two forge ahead into the ring-tilting riders' domain and surprise the crowd – Tassilo with his strength and bravery, Xaver with his unexpected skills as a lanceman.

Zimnik's melancholy, tender, dreamy fairy tales for adults and children. A gallery full of kind, truculent, naive, tragicomic loners and misfits in the shape of humans and animals, that oppose this world with a more ideal and innocent one.

Diogenes

»There are countless picture word books in existence, but the great Tomi Ungerer has, of course, created a very special one.«

Katrin Hörnlein/
Die Zeit, Hamburg

»A short story with little words and illustrations – filled with great poetry.«

Cornelia Geißler/Berliner Zeitung

»A wonderful and unique picture book.«

Ute Blaich/
Die Zeit, Hamburg

»A book in which imagination and reality complement each other wonderfully.«

Brigitte, Hamburg

»Tatjana Hauptmann's tender illustrations turn John Irving's story into a picture book to ward off fear.«

Margit Lesemann/
Der Tagesspiegel, Berlin

»Here is something for old and young – delightful satire and an amusing story.«

Hamburger Abendblatt

»A masterpiece.«

Süddeutsche Zeitung, Munich

»Delightfully told and pictured in Tomi Ungerer's appealing, humanistic manner.«

The New York Times
